Cinderella

Cinderella is ...

caring, loving and hard-working.

Cinderella loves ...

her pet dog, Gus!

Cinderella believes ...

you should never give up.

Cinderella's story ...

When Cinderella's father dies, her stepmother is mean to Cinderella. She makes her scrub the house every day, but Cinderella never stops dreaming. When an invitation to the Royal Ball arrives, her Fairy Godmother transforms Cinderella into a princess and her life changes forever.

Royal Maze

Prince Charming is looking everywhere for Cinderella.
Guide him through the maze to her.

Make sure

Answer on page 69.

A New Friend

1 One morning, Jaq and Gus excitedly beckoned Cinderella to follow them to the palace garden. It was clear that something was wrong ...

2 ... but it was hard for Cinderella to guess what her two friends were telling her.

3 After much guessing, the mice suddenly jumped up and ran off. "A pear thief?" Cinderella thought as she rushed after her friends.

1 Follow the mice to the thief.

4 There in the palace garden, a beautiful chestnut colt pulled at a branch on the pear tree. The little horse shook the branch to pull off a pear.

"Why you sillies, it's not a thief," said Cinderella, "it's just a beautiful but very hungry colt."

6

Just then, the colt dashed off with a pear in his mouth. Cinderella followed the colt into the forest.

Cinderella could not keep up with the speedy colt. But she followed the direction the colt ran and soon she discovered him together with another horse, a beautiful chestnut mare!

Circle the fruit the colt has in his mouth.

Answer on page 69.

8 The colt nuzzled up against the mare who had her leg stuck in a log.

"This must be your mother," said Cinderella. "How sweet of you to bring her the pear."

9 "Now hold very still," said Cinderella as she began to free the mare's leg. It was hard but she managed.

10 The mare was very happy when she could finally stand up again. "Let's get you to the palace stables for a proper meal and some water," said Cinderella.

3 Tick ✓ what Cinderella will give the two horses.

Answer on page 69.

11 And now that the colt was no longer a dangerous thief Gus and Jaq introduced themselves. The colt looked at them curiously.

12

Then the colt lowered his head in front of them. Gus and Jaq looked up at Cinderella "Go on boys," urged Cinderella. "He's offering you a ride."

13

The two mice smiled shyly and then climbed up onto the little colt. Jaq and Gus were the first riders that the colt had ever had and he galloped along happily.

Colour the flowers when you finish.

14

The chestnut mare looked at her lovely colt, her heart full of pride. Her little colt and its two small friends had bravely saved the day!

Book of Dreams

Belle loves to read stories. Can you design your very own book for Belle to read?
Remember to give it a title!

Furry Intruder

1 One morning, Belle poured herself a glass of milk. She briefly turned away to get some cookies out of the oven, but when she turned back, the glass was empty. Who had drunk her milk?

How strange!

It wasn't me.
I drink tea!

Who do you think drank
the milk?

2 Later, Mrs. Potts told the other enchanted objects about the strange story of the empty milk glass. "Perhaps it was the Beast who drank it?" suggested Chip. "But he was in the garden all morning," insisted Lumière.

3 "Then who could it be?" asked Chip. "I think I know who!" said Cogsworth. "Come, I will show you."

4 Cogsworth led the enchanted objects to a broken vase in the dining room. "I was taking a short nap," he began, "but was awakened by a big CRASH! Someone broke the vase!"

1 Can you count how many pieces the vase broke into?

6 "My poor Fifi," said Lumiere. "I think it is clear that we have an intruder in the castle and we must get it out!"

5 Next, Fifi spoke up. "I too heard a most horrible sound. Someone was scratching at the door while I dusted the library!"

We'll get him!

7 They all agreed not to tell Belle. So that night, the enchanted objects patrolled the castle, watching for the intruder.

8

"We'll catch that milk-drinking, vase-breaking, door-scratching monster and throw him out!" declared Cogsworth, as he marched back and forth in the hall.

Everyone patrolled their stations until late at night. But the intruder didn't appear. When the clock struck midnight, they were all very tired.

10

They agreed it was best to patrol together in the hall. "I think I will just take a quick nap," said Lumiere. "Wake me up if you hear the intruder." They all nodded but fell asleep too!

13

Belle giggled, "I think I've found your intruder. This stable kitten must have got stuck inside the castle. I found her curled up in my bed this morning!" It was the kitten that had drunk Belle's milk, broken the vase and scratched at the door. When they took the kitten back to the stables they all agreed it was the furriest and cutest intruder they had ever seen.

2 ➤ The villagers were all preparing food for the feast but Heihei was getting in everyone's way. Gramma Tala sighed as the silly bird got his foot caught in a woven platter.

3 ➤ Gramma Tala freed Heihei but slipped on the platter. As Moana caught her, the anklet she'd been hiding in her belt fell and landed around Heihei's neck. Nobody noticed.

4 Gramma Tala decided to put Heihei in a basket until after the feast so he couldn't cause any more trouble. She still didn't spot the anklet around his neck.

5 Just then, Moana realised the anklet was missing. Her pet pig Pua peered inside the basket and spotted it around Heihei's neck. He was determined to get the anklet back for Moana.

6 But first, Pua needed to get the basket open. He tried rolling it, catapulting it and dragging it. Heihei's head and feet popped out but the strong basket stayed shut.

Answer on page 69.

7 Then Pua heard music - the feast was about to start. He had to do something drastic to get the anklet to Moana in time. He tossed the basket into a tree and jumped up after it ...

8 Pua bounced up and down on a branch and the two animals were flung out of the tree. They soared through the air towards the feast. As the basket hit the ground, it finally opened.

9 Pua and Heihei rolled across the beach, getting tangled up in a fishing net, and came to a stop right by Moana's feet. "You found it!" she cried, taking the anklet from Pua's snout.

3 Follow the trail Pua and Heihei have made, soaring through the sky.

10 Later that evening, Moana gave her father the anklet. "I love it," he said, giving her a hug. Moana smiled gratefully at Pua to say thank you to her loyal pet for saving the day.

11 Then she rolled her eyes as Heihei wandered past, tangled up in the basket again with a piece of driftwood stuck on his beak. Some things never change!

What's this?

2 "What a beautiful shell," Ariel said. She imagined what it would be like to have a magical shell that could grant wishes.

Tick ✓ what Ariel has found.

3

First, she dreamt that she was riding a seahorse in a competition and she won first prize.

Then she dreamt she was the star of a singing contest surrounded by a school of fish who performed a dazzling dance routine.

If only it could grant wishes.

"Dreams are important but only if we achieve them by our own hard work," said Sebastian.

Suddenly, Sebastian appeared and snapped her out of her daydream. Ariel told him she was disappointed that the shell wasn't really magical and able to make her dreams come true.

Ocean Contest

Ariel decided she was going to make her dreams come true herself. She was going to organise an ocean contest and everyone was invited to show off their talents and skills.

8 First, she asked her friends to help with the poster and invitations. Then she asked King Triton if he would judge the contest.

Write who made the poster.

9 Next, Ariel organised the seahorses for the race competition. Then she assembled the band and sorted out rehearsals for the singing and dance competitions. She even made pretty sea-garlands to give out as prizes.

All done!

10 "What are you going to give as first prize to the overall winner?" asked Flounder. "Oh dear, I hadn't thought of that. I wish..."

Colour the sea flowers.

11 Suddenly, Ariel had an idea.
"I'll give the overall winner this beautiful shell!" she said excitedly.
"It's a perfect prize," agreed Flounder.

This beautiful shell!

Wonderful!

12 The day of the contest arrived. Ariel was happy that all her hard work had paid off. Everyone enjoyed the contest and lots of prizes were given out. But there could only be one overall winner.

13 After a long pause, King Triton made his announcement, "The first prize is for... 'Best Ocean Contest Organiser' and the winner is Ariel!" Everyone cheered as Ariel received her well-deserved prize.

This is one wish I made happen without magic.

Time for Courage

Once upon a time there was a clever Chinese girl named Mulan. She disguised herself as a man to take her sickly father's place in the army. Mulan was helped by Mushu, a magical dragon sent by her ancestors.

One day in the snowy mountains, enemy soldiers surrounded the army. The Chinese troops were outnumbered, and their brave leader, Captain Shang, knew it was only a matter of time before they were defeated.

"There has to be a way to win," Mulan said to Mushu. Mushu held his hands over his ears as the cannons echoed through the mountains.

"Do those things have to be so loud?" he asked. That gave Mulan an idea.

"Mushu, you're brilliant!" she said.

Mulan hurried to one of the cannons and pointed it high above the heads of the enemy.

"You won't hit anything like that," her fellow soldiers said.

"Just watch," said Mulan as she fired the cannon.

A cannonball sailed over the heads of the enemies and struck the mountain behind them. The cannonball shook the mountain and the snow on top came crashing down its side in an avalanche, burying the enemy army. But Captain Shang was buried too. Mulan rode her horse over the dangerous snow until she reached Shang. She pulled him out of the snow.

"Get on," she said in a deep voice. Captain Shang leapt onto Mulan's horse and rode away as the enemy army struggled beneath the snow.

"You're the bravest man I know!" Captain Shang told Mulan.

Later, Mulan's disguise was uncovered, but that didn't stop her from saving the emperor and China before returning to her proud family!
